

Global World Communicator program

«Global World Communicator (GWC). Education and Science» - the first international program in the format of a „World Wide Discussion” introduced to develop general concept of evaluation of higher education institutions and scientific centers with the aim to assign a professional quality rating to them. This work is carried out in stages and encompasses carrying out appraisals and holding conferences with participation of highest quality specialists from different countries, within the frame of the International Council of Scientists (ICS).

We invite universities from different countries to join the program and receive international accreditation in program “Global World Communicator GWC. Education and Science”.

We also invite professors from these universities to become a member of the International Council of Scientists.

University accreditation will allow university to join the system of evaluation as well as receive international professional rating participating directly in the process and influencing it.

The university participation in the program and professors in the International Council of Scientists opens wide opportunities for international cooperation, for consolidation of humanitarian values in the modern open world, for objective assessment of scientific-educational potential of one’s university and ways for further development, for creation of a joint professional system of assessment of educational and scientific institutions.

Three ways to participate in the GWC program for universities and colleges:

- University (college) is not registered in the program. All data for the ranking is taken from public sources.
- Registration in the GWC program. University (college) participates in the program with full procedure of ranking.
- Accreditation in the GWC program. University (college) is included in the program as an international expert in the field of education and research. University professors participate in the International Council of Scientists. After accreditation university will receive status and a certificate “University - International Expert (UIE) in the field of Education and Research”.

University accreditation is a way of active participation in GWC program.

University accreditation will allow university to join the system of evaluation as well as receive international rating participating directly in the process and influencing it.

General developer – ICD (Internet Communications Development) Group Ltd.

Communications by email: info@cicerobook.com